ALLIE SHERMAN — HEAD COACH

Of all the fine coaching jobs turned in by Allie Sherman during his seven years with the Giants—and there have been many of them—1967 may rate as his finest. Taking a ball club that had finished last with a 1-12-1 record the year before, Allie brought the Giants back to even .500 with a 7-7 record and a third-place finish behind Dallas and Cleveland in the NFL eastern division. This superlative performance put Sherman's Giant career record at 50 victories, 44 losses and 4 ties for an overall winning percentage of .531! Included among these achievements were NFL eastern championships in 1961-62-63 and a second-place finish in 1965. Thus, in seven seasons, Allie has guided New York to three first-place finishes, a second and a third—five winning years! For his winning efforts as a rookie coach in 1961, Sherman was named NFL Coach of the Year; he won the same distinction in 1962, making him the only coach in NFL history to earn this honor in successive seasons. And he was strongly in the running again in 1963 when the Giants posted an 11-3 record to win their third straight eastern crown. Allie's record over those first three years was an amazing 33-8-1 for a percentage of .843! When New York nose-dived to 2-10-2 in 1964, the critics said it would be a long time before Sherman brought his club back. But Allie took a rookie-studded squad to a 7-7 second place tie with Dallas the following year in what many regarded as a more superlative coaching performance than any he had done in the team's three championship years. Allie Sherman's career with the New York Giants spans two periods. He was backfield coach under Steve Owen from 1949 to 1953, and one of his first jobs was the conversion of a rookie named Charlie Conerly from a single-wing tailback to a T-formation quarterback. When Owen left in 1953 and Jim Lee Howell took over, young Sherman moved up to the Canadian League as head coach at Winnipeg (1954-55-56) and made the title playoffs three straight years. He returned to the NFL in 1957 as a personnel scout for the Giants, and served in that capacity until replacing Vinnie Lombardi as offense coach in 1959. When Howell stepped down after the 1960 campaign, the Maramen didn't have to look far for his successor. Sherman was their man! Allie coached in the Senior Bowl five times (1951-52-53-59-60) and in 1961, 1962 and 1963 he headed the eastern eleven in the Pro Bowl game. Prior to entering the pro ranks, he coached at St. Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia on a part-time basis in 1946-47, and later helped install the T-formation at Gettysburg College in 1953. In 1948, as player-coach, he led the Paterson, N.J., Panthers to the American Association title.

Sherman was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles in the war year of 1943, and played with Greasy Neale's club for five seasons—until 1947. Allie was never more than a second-string quarterback behind Roy Zimmerman, but coach Neale credited the little lefthander with having "one of the sharpest football minds in the business." Sherman may not have played much as an Eagle quarterback but neither did he waste his years on the bench. He absorbed all there was to learn about coaching from Neale, threw in some of his own philosophy, and then began his career with the Paterson Panthers, whence he moved up to Owen's staff at the Polo Grounds.

Allie attended Boys' High in New York City (1935-38) and then played four years of football under Lou Oshins at Brooklyn College. His biggest thrill came the day underdog Brooklyn rallied to whip City College, 28-21. Al passed for two touchdowns and scored the other two. In 1942, Sherman's junior year, Oshins installed the then-new T-formation and put Al at quarterback. The lefthanded kid was so adept at running the Brooklyn T that Philadelphia pro scouts immediately grabbed him to operate the Eagles' T.

Sherman was born on February 10, 1923. He has one sister, Miriam. He majored in psychology and economics at Brooklyn College and was graduated Cum Laude in 1942. He and pretty wife Joan have three children, Randy, Lori and Robin. Sherman likes tennis as a hobby—but not as much as he likes looking at football films after the rest of the clan has retired for the night. "I never get tired of football," he admits.

KEN KAVANAUGH

ASSISTANT COACH — 14TH YEAR

Kavanaugh joined the Giants' coaching staff in 1955 and has been closely associated with the club's success over the ensuing years. As offensive end coach, Ken works closely with head coach Allie Sherman on the passing game and is, according to Sherman, "a sound and imaginative coach in that phase of pro football." Prior to assuming his duties with New York, Ken was an end coach with the Bears (1951) and assistant coach at Villanova College in 1954. The name Kavanaugh is stamped indelibly on the history of the Chicago Bears. Ken was one of the most famous ends in NFL annals as a member of the powerhouse Bear teams of the early 1940s. He played in 1940-41, left for a hitch in the Air Force, and returned to make all-pro in 1946-47. Ken is the all-time Chicago touchdown leader with 50. Kavanaugh played end for Louisiana State University from 1936-40 and twice earned All-American honors. He also starred on the LSU baseball team, and made good as a minor league player prior to signing a pro contract with the Bears.

JIM TRIMBLE

ASSISTANT COACH — 17TH YEAR

Big Jim Trimble, who joined the Giants' coaching staff for the 1967 season, boasts a long and distinguished career in pro football. Jim was head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles (1952-56), the Hamilton Tiger Cats (1956-62) and the Montreal Alouettes (1963-65) and rarely was he ever on the losing side of the ledger. His National Football League record with the Eagles was 27-20-2. In Canada, Jim compiled an impressive mark of 77 wins, 61 losses and two ties. He guided Hamilton to the Grey Cup championship in 1957, and added eastern championships with the Tiger Cats in 1958-59-61-62 before moving on to Montreal. He was the Canadian League's Coach of the Year in 1961. Trimble joined the Eagles in 1951 as line coach under the late Bo McMillan and succeeded Bo the following year. For three seasons (1939-40-41) Big Jim was a standout tackle at Indiana. In 1942 he was the recipient of the L.G. Balfour Award as the most valuable player on the squad—by vote, incidentally, of his teammates.

HARLAND SVARE

ASSISTANT COACH — 8TH YEAR

Svare first served as a defensive player-coach with the Giants in 1960, then retired as a player and was fulltime defensive coach in 1961. The following year, he left New York to join Bob Waterfield's staff with the Los Angeles Rams. When Waterfield resigned in October of that year, Swede was named interim coach. Prior to the start of the 1963 campaign, he was officially named head coach of the Rams, and served in that capacity in 1963-64-65. Originally drafted No. 17 by the Rams in 1953, Swede was traded to the Giants in 1955, where he was part of the great defensive units that took New York to eastern titles in 1956-58-59. He played right corner line-backer over that span and was regarded as one of the league's most aggressive tacklers. Svare starred at Washington State University as a defensive end for three years but also saw service as a fullback. He once caught three touchdown passes against the U. of Idaho. Still a bachelor, handsome 37-year-old Svare was born on November 25, 1930, in Clarfield, Minn. Harland likes to play the guitar and is an avid golfer who can shoot around 80 on a hot day.

JACK PATERA

ASSISTANT COACH — 6TH YEAR

Considered one of the bright young assistant coaches in the game, Jack Patera joined the staff of the New York Giants in 1967 after four years as defensive line coach with the Los Angeles Rams. He is credited with playing a large part in the development of the Rams' great defensive front four. During a seven-year career in the National Football League, Patera was an outstanding corner line-backer for three different clubs before becoming a coach with the Rams. He played with the Baltimore Colts (1955-57), the St. Louis (nee Chicago) Cardinals (1958-59) and the Dallas Cowboys (1960-61). As a 230-pound guard at the U. of Oregon, Patera was one of the top linemen in Pacific Coast football from 1952-54. He earned all-conference honors twice and, in 1955, appeared in the East-West Shrine game, the Hula Bowl and the College All Star game at Chicago. Jack Patera was born on August 1, 1933, in Bismark, N.D., his mother's home town. He is the only football player among three Patera boys although brothers Ken and Dennis were outstanding performers in track.

EMLLEN TUNNELL

ASSISTANT COACH — 6TH YEAR

Although 1968 marks Tunnell's fourth season as a full-time coach, it is actually his sixth season as a member of the Giants' staff. In 1963 and 1964, Em combined his scouting chores with special coaching assignments in training camp. Now, as the first regular Negro coach in NFL history, the one-time all-pro defensive back works with Harland Svare on the defensive secondary. He was a great safetyman with the Giants for 11 years (1948-58) and then spent three additional seasons with Green Bay (1959-61) before retiring. Em was one of the true iron men of the sport. With the Giants he set a consecutive game record of 126, which still stands, and ran that string to 158 with the Packers. Tunnell still holds two NFL records—most career interceptions (79) and most career punt returns (258). Tunnell was a member of the Giants' celebrated "umbrella" defense but he also was a fellow who piled up lots of yardage for New York. In 1952 he gained 924 yards on interceptions and kick returns; the following year he totaled 819 yards the same way.

ALEX WEBSTER

ASSISTANT COACH — 2ND YEAR

Webster made his debut as a professional coach in 1967 and is now in his second year as back-field aide to Allie Sherman. Alex starred for the Giants as a running back for 10 brilliant seasons (1955-64), a period of outstanding success for the Maramen. He still holds three club records—most rushing attempts (1,213), most rushing yardage (4,805) and most touchdowns rushing (39). He was the No. 12 draft choice of the Washington Redskins in 1953 but was cut from the squad in training camp. He then went up to Canada where he starred for two years at Montreal under coach Peahead Walker, now a Giant scout. He joined the Giants in 1955 and teamed with Frank Gifford to form one of the first big back running duos in the NFL. At North Carolina State, Webster played both offensive halfback and defensive safety, twice winning a berth on the all-Southern Conference first team. Alexander Webster was born in Kearny, N.J., on April 19, 1931. He is married to the former Louise Eggers and they have two children, a boy and a girl.

ROSEY BROWN

ASSISTANT COACH — 3RD YEAR

When a phlebitis condition brought his days as a player to an end in the summer of 1966, Rosey Brown was immediately tabbed by coach Allie Sherman as an assistant offensive line coach. He has shown the same dedication and aptitude for coaching that marked his play as one of the NFL's great tackles over the years. Rosey was drafted No. 27 by the Giants in 1953 in what is generally regarded as one of the great "sleeper" picks of all time. As an offensive tackle in the years of the Giants' greatest successes, he earned all-pro honors six times and played in eight Pro Bowl games. In 1956, the year New York won the NFL championship by beating the Chicago Bears, Rosey was named Lineman of the Year by the Associated Press. Brown was a three-time member of the Negro All American eleven and co-captained the Morgan State team in his junior and senior year. He won four major letters in football, two in wrestling (he was conference heavyweight mat champ) and one in baseball. Roosevelt Brown, Jr., was born on October 20, 1932, in Charlottesville, Va.

JIM LEE HOWELL

PLAYER PERSONNEL DIRECTOR

In a quarter of a century with the Football Giants, towering, affable and efficient Jim Lee Howell has filled a variety of posts—player, assistant coach, head coach and now director of player personnel. Jim Lee joined the Giants in 1937 after a brilliant athletic career at the U. of Arkansas, and was among the fine crop of rookies who led the Maramen to the world title in 1938 and eastern crowns in 1939 and 1941. He was a regular two-way Giant end for a total of nine years, 1937-42 and 1946-48, his career being interrupted for a wartime hitch with the Marines in the South Pacific. Upon the completion of his playing days, Howell served as end coach under Steve Owen from 1949-53. He moved into the No. 1 job when Owen departed in 1953. Over a seven-year period with Howell as head coach, New York won three divisional titles (1956-58-59) and one world championship (1956). In this job, Howell supervises the club's far-flung and ever-expanding recruiting system, works in close liaison with the scouts and correlates the voluminous material compiled on college players.

VETERAN PLAYER BIOGRAPHIES

BRUCE ANDERSON

DEFENSIVE END
Williamette U.

24 250 6-4

3RD YEAR
Portland, Ore.

PRO: Anderson, the No. 6 draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams for 1966, came to the Giants in exchange for a future draft choice prior to the 1967 season and when the campaign ended he was playing regularly at right defensive end. Particularly agile for a man his size, he exhibited a strong pass rush during the final few games of the year.

SCHOOL: Bruce earned four varsity letters at Williamette University (where, by the way, the Giants used to train) and was named to the NAIA All-American team as a senior defensive end. He also captained Williamette in his final season.

PERSONAL: Bruce Albert Anderson was born on January 18, 1944, in Coos Bay, Ore., into a family of three children. He is now married to the former Eileen Doern and they have a son, Troy Douglas, 1½. Bruce holds a degree in physical education and in the off-season he does public relations work for the Control Data Corp. in Los Angeles.

ROGER ANDERSON

DEFENSIVE TACKLE
Virginia Union

26 265 6-5

3RD YEAR
Arlington, Va.

PRO: Anderson was the Giants' No. 7 draft choice for the 1964 season. He played with New York for two seasons, mostly as a reserve, and was then claimed by Atlanta in the NFL expansion pool. When the Falcons released him in 1966, Roger landed a job with Montreal in the Canadian League, where he was a standout defensive lineman. In 1967, Anderson got his release from Montreal and re-joined the Giants. A bad ankle kept him sidelined most of the time but he was activated late in the season and saw brief service at defensive tackle.

SCHOOL: Roger earned four football letters at Virginia Union and was named to the all-Central Intercollegiate team three straight years. He once set a school record by making 20 unassisted tackles in a single game.

PERSONAL: Roger Cole Anderson was born on November 11, 1942, in Bedford, Va., and attended high school in Oxford, N.C. He holds a BA degree in elementary education and wants to become a physical therapist. He is married to the former Cecilia McCaleb and they have two children, Roger IV, 2½; and Keith, 1.

KEN AVERY

LINEBACKER

2ND YEAR

So. Mississippi 24 225 6-0 New York City

PRO: Avery was drafted No. 12 as a "future" in 1966, joined the Giants the following season and, despite some early injuries, eventually won himself a starting berth at corner linebacker. Big, mobile and aggressive, Ken has fine potential and is one of the key men in the club's future planning.

SCHOOL: Ken captained the Southern Mississippi eleven as a senior, earned All-American honorable mention and starred in both the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl games. He set a school record for most tackles in a single game and most assists for a season. Against N. Carolina State, Ken made 14 solo tackles, assisted on 10 others, blocked a field goal attempt, caused two enemy fumbles, knocked down several passes in the secondary and (get this) played guard during So. Mississippi's only scoring march. Avery won three football letters and was twice named the team's MVP.

PERSONAL: Kenneth William Avery was born in New York City on May 23, 1944, but spent most of his early years around Miami, Fla., where he was a three-sport star and all-state fullback at South Dade Senior H.S. He holds a B.S. degree in physical education and is a qualified dance instructor. A bachelor, Ken is of English-French descent. His hobbies include water polo, skiing, sailing and weightlifting.

TREVA (BOOKIE) BOLIN

GUARD

7TH YEAR

U. of Mississippi 28 240 6-2 Okolona, Miss.

PRO: Bolin was drafted on the fifth round as a "future" for the 1963 season but was signed by the Giants in 1962 when the NCAA ruled him ineligible for further collegiate competition. After filling a reserve role as a rookie, Bolin moved into a starting guard berth in 1963 and since then has become one of the outstanding guards in the NFL.

SCHOOL: Bookie was a regular guard for Ole Miss in his sophomore and junior seasons. He earned three varsity letters, two in football, and played in the 1961 Sugar Bowl and 1962 Cotton Bowl games. Coaches at Mississippi regarded him as one of the top linemen ever developed at the school.

PERSONAL: Treva Bolin (he doesn't rightly know how he came by the nickname of Bookie) was born on June 17, 1940, in Hamilton, Ala. He is married to the former Joyce Gentry and they have a daughter, Ramona, who is 3 years old. A top student at Ole Miss, Bolin was named to the all-Scholastic eleven as a junior. He hopes to pursue a career in coaching. His hobbies include hunting and fishing "down home in Okolona, Miss."

BARRY BROWN

OFFENSIVE END
Florida U.

25 235 6-3

3RD YEAR
Baltimore, Md.

PRO: Drafted No. 19 as a "future" choice in 1965 by the Baltimore Colts, Brown spent two seasons with the Colts before coming to the Giants prior to the 1968 season in a trade for defensive back Henry Carr. Brown appeared in 10 games with the Colts in 1966 as a reserve linebacker, had one interception against Detroit. In 1967, he spent most of the season with the special team units, but saw frequent action as well as a left linebacker. Giants will use him at tight end.

SCHOOL: Brown was a two-way performer at Florida University, playing tight end on offense and linebacker on defense. He was a favorite target of Steve Spurrier, and sparkled in the 1966 Sugar Bowl game against Missouri by making nine catches.

PERSONAL: Brown was born on April 17, 1943, in Boston, Mass., and starred at Ann Arbor High School in Michigan before matriculating at Florida. Barry and wife Jean are the parents of a daughter, Tara Michelle, aged 3.

PETE CASE

GUARD
U. of Georgia

27 245 6-3

7TH YEAR
Decatur, Ga.

PRO: Obtained from the Philadelphia Eagles in a 1965 pre-season trade, Case now ranks as one of the premier guards in professional football. He has played some tackle for the Giants, pinch-hitting in emergencies, but coach Allie Sherman prefers to keep him at guard. Pete was the Eagles' No. 2 draft selection for 1962 and became a regular for Philadelphia in 1964. Case is not an especially colorful performer (few offensive linemen are) but he is regarded around the NFL as a consistent player, adept at pass blocking and effective as a pull-out running guard. Somehow the All Pro selectors manage to overlook Pete at the end of each season, as do the Pro Bowl people, but most coaches in the league rate him among the top three or four guards in the business today. Giants' coach Allie Sherman gives Pete much of the credit for the explosive attack mounted by the Maramen in 1967, when they were third in overall yardage and scoring in the NFL. "Case helped our line become an effective and cohesive unit," says Allie.

SCHOOL: Pete was an All-Southeastern Conference selection in his sophomore year at the U. of Georgia, and played in both the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl games. He also starred in the 1959 Orange Bowl for the Bulldogs.

PERSONAL: Born Ronald Lee Case on December 27, 1940, in Dayton, O., Case changed his name to Pete because there was an abundance of Ronalds in his neighborhood as a youngster. He has a degree in business administration and now runs a stylish restaurant and cocktail lounge in Atlanta. Pete is married to the former Susan Harris.

5TH YEAR

Lakeland, Fla.

PRO: Childs was signed as a free agent by the Giants in 1961 and spent one season on the taxi squad before leaving for two years' service with the Army in Germany. On his return, he won a job as an offensive back although most of his playing time was spent on kickoff returns. In fact, he led the NFL that year with 34 returns for 987 yards and a 29.0 average, one a 100-yard TD burst against Minnesota. In 1965, Clarence was switched to corner back on defense and in 1966 he won the regular job from Dick Lynch.

SCHOOL: During his varsity career at Florida A&M (which also sent Bob Hayes to the NFL later on), Childs won four football letters as a great running back and three in track as a 220 champion. Among his track accomplishments were several 93 hundreds. He was a two-time all-SIAC choice and received some All-American honorable mention in 1959.

PERSONAL: Clarence Childs was born on January 13, 1938, in Lakeland, Fla., where he still makes his home. A bachelor, he is a school teacher in the off-season. He holds a B.S. degree in history. MIKE CICCOLELLA

MIDDLE LINEBACKER

U. of Dayton 24 235 6-1

3RD YEAR

Follansbee, W. Va.

PRO: Drafted as a "future" on the 18th round for the 1966 season, Ciccolella joined the Giants with the reputation as a tough, hard-nosed ball-player with fine defensive instinct. He rode the bench for several weeks as a rookie and then took over as the regular middle linebacker down the stretch. In 1967, however, Mike was injured early in training and lost his job to veteran Vince Costello, who was obtained in a trade with Cleveland.

SCHOOL: As a middle linebacker, Mike averaged almost 15 solo tackles per game at Dayton. He injured his knee in 1964, missing most of the season, but returned the following year to win two awards as Dayton's MVP. He earned Catholic All-America honors and was captain of the Dayton eleven as a senior.

PERSONAL: Michael Eugene Ciccolella was born on October 19, 1943, in Follansbee, West Va., and naturally his boyhood idol was Sam Huff, then the Giants' star middle linebacker and a fellow West Virginian. Mike holds a B.S. degree in physical education and wants to become a teacher-coach some day.

JIM COLVIN

DEFENSIVE TACKLE

Houston 30 250 6-2

9TH YEAR

Orange, Tex.

PRO: Veteran pro came to the Giants in 1967 from the Dallas Cowboys in exchange for a draft choice and turned out to be a valuable acquisition. Colvin was a starter in 72 consecutive NFL games with the Cowboys and Baltimore Colts before suffering a knee injury late in the 1966 campaign which required surgery. Giants took a chance on the polished veteran, and he came on to play solid football in late stages of 1967 season, particularly in win over Eagles when he personally nailed QB Norm Snead three times for big losses. Excellent pass rusher, strong against the run, Colvin is aggressive and consistent.

SCHOOL: A three-year letterman at Houston, Jim was an All-Missouri Valley selection as a senior and honorable mention All-America. Also played in Senior Bowl in 1959.

PERSONAL: Jim was born in Monohans, Tex., on November 30, 1937, and grew up in Orange, Tex. where he lives now in off-season. Married to the former Judy Arlene Willis, Jim works as a field engineer for the Augenstein Construction Co. in the off-season.

4TH YEAR

Muldraw, Okla.

PRO: The Giants selected Condren as a "future" pick on the 11th round in the 1964 draft. He joined the club in 1965 but was hampered by post-surgical problems with a knee that had been injured in college and was sent home to recover. He re-joined the Maramen later that year and saw action in a few games. In 1966, his first full year as a pro, Glen played both defensive end and tackle. He continued to improve during 1967 as the club's right end on defense.

SCHOOL: Glen was a regular right tackle for Oklahoma, playing both ways, and earned all-conference honors as a senior. Regarded as one of the top offensive line blockers in Sooner history, he earned four football letters and closed out his career with a starring role in the 1964 Gator Bowl game.

PERSONAL: Condren was born on June 10, 1942, at Fort Smith, Ark., but shortly thereafter his family moved to Muldraw, Okla., where his father, Leonard, was a railroad employee. Glen graduated from Muldraw High in 1960 after winning letters in three sports and earning all-state honors as an end in football. He majored in history at Oklahoma and was a member of the ROTC unit at Norman. Glen is married to the former Linda Haug and they have one child, Kimberly Dawn, who is 2½ years old.

VINCE COSTELLO

LINEBACKER

Ohio University

36

230

6-0

12TH YEAR

Magnolia, Ohio

PRO: After 10 years as the middle linebacker of the Cleveland Browns, Costello suddenly became expendable in 1967 to the Cleveland club and the Giants quickly made a deal for a draft choice to get Vince in a New York uniform. With only three days practice, the veteran opened as middle linebacker in the season opener, made a key interception, then enjoyed an exceptionally fine season with the Giants. His experience and knowledge added poise to the young Giant defensive unit, and by season's end, Vince had been a solid performer all year long. Finished with four interceptions for return yardage of 54 yards...second on the club. Costello infects his teammates with drive and hustle; he sets a pace that even the rookies have difficulty keeping up with. He knows what it is to be a winner—he was an integral part of the many championship Cleveland entries—and he says he wants his young Giant teammates, most of whom have never made it to the top, to achieve this pinnacle.

It never occurs to Vince Costello that his side won't win. That's why he is such a fine pro, a man respected everywhere in pro football.

SCHOOL: Vince starred in football, basketball and baseball at Ohio University and had a trial as a minor league outfielder with the Cincinnati Redleg organization before switching to pro football with the Browns.

PERSONAL: Vince was born in Dellroy, Ohio on August 4, 1932 and coached high school football in Big Walnut, Ohio before going to the Browns as a free agent. Served as a Lieut. in the Air Force for two years. Married to the former Sally Dutton, Vince has five children—Carol, Kay, David, Ann and Susan. Vince owns and operates a boys' camp in the off-season.

6-4

8TH YEAR

Greenville, Miss.

PRO: Crespino, regarded as one of the most under-rated tight ends in the NFL, was Cleveland's No. 1 draft choice in 1961 but was used only sporadically by the Browns for three years and finally came to the Giants in a 1964 trade for defensive tackle Dick Modzelewski. In four seasons with New York, Bob has caught 45 passes for 514 yards and eight touchdowns—or one TD for every five receptions!

SCHOOL: Bobby was an All-American flankerback at Ole Miss (a teammate of ex-Giant Glynn Griffing) and set a Senior Bowl record with nine catches in 1960. He was injured in the 1961 College All Star game and never did get untracked with the Browns. At Ole Miss, Crespino ran the 220 and also lettered in baseball. He was Mississippi state high school champ at 100, 220 and 440 yards at Greenville High.

PERSONAL: Crespino was born on January 11, 1938, in Duncan, Miss., but grew up around Greenville. He is married to the former Barbara Hardin of Macon, Miss., and have one child, Lou, who is 2 years old.

TOMMY JOE CRUTCHER

LINEBACKER

5TH YEAR

Texas Christian 26 230 6-3 McKinney, Tex.

PRO: Crutcher was the No. 3 draft choice of the Green Bay Packers for 1964, played as a reserve linebacker for four seasons and came to the Giants prior to the 1968 campaign (along with Packer teammate Steve Wright) in the Francis Peay trade.

SCHOOL: Tommy Joe was a standout fullback at Texas Christian and was called by coach Abe Martin "...as near a complete football player as a coach could want." Crutcher was a starter at TCU from his first day as a freshman candidate and finished with a career rushing total of 1,583 yards on 362 carries. As a junior he once gained 125 yards rushing on 12 tries against SMU and scored both touchdowns in a 14-9 TCU win. In his senior year, he was rated the top fullback in the Southwest Conference.

PERSONAL: One of 10 children (seven boys and three girls) Tommy Joe Crutcher was born on August 10, 1941, on a farm five miles west of McKinney, Tex., where he still lives. "I started playing football in grade school," he says, "so I could get out of farm work." Still a bachelor, Tommy Joe recently bought 1,000 acres of land in the Rio Grande Valley for the growing of maize. Packer mates nicknamed him "Old Blue" because that's the only song he could sing. Be that as it may, he's a great fan of hillbilly and western music.

DON DAVIS

DEFENSIVE TACKLE

3RD YEAR

L.A. State College 23 260 6-6 Santa Ana, Calif.

PRO: The Giants' No. 2 draft pick for 1966, big Don Davis has had his share of ups and downs as a young pro. He reported to camp as a rookie weighing a massive 325 pounds and fell behind almost immediately. When his weight got down to a normal 285, Don was tried at offensive tackle before the decision was finally made to move him to defense. High hopes were held for Davis in his second season but he suffered a knee injury in camp, underwent surgery and missed the entire year.

SCHOOL: Davis is the only player in history to have won offensive and defensive first-team designation on the all-California Collegiate AA eleven. He was also a two-time AP All-West Coast choice. Prior to entering L.A. State, Don attended Santa Ana J.C., where he twice earned Junior College All-American honors and won two MVP awards in the Junior Rose Bowl.

PERSONAL: Donald Davis was born in Santa Ana, Calif., on December 16, 1943, and was an all-state lineman at Santa Ana High. Don, who was married in 1966 to the former Joanne Hill, majored in business administration at L.A. State and was a top student.

ROOSEVELT DAVIS

DEFENSIVE END
Tenn. A&I

26 260 6-4

4TH YEAR
Detroit, Mich.

PRO: Davis was the No. 8 draft choice of the Baltimore Colts for 1965 and was among the final players released from training camp that year. The Giants acquired him on waivers and he earned a starting berth late in his rookie season. Rosey was just coming into his own in 1966 when he was sidelined by knee surgery for most of the season. Last year, a severe ankle injury put him on the shelf again and he never did get back into the lineup.

SCHOOL: Tennessee A&I coach John Merritt said of Davis, "He's amazingly quick for his size and very strong, and there's no doubt in my mind that he'll make the grade in the NFL." A knee injury hampered Rosey for a time in college but he still managed to earn four major letters, playing both defensive end and offensive tackle.

PERSONAL: Rosey was born on November 29, 1941, in Jackson, Miss., into a family that included six sisters and no brothers! He attended Jim Hill High before moving on to Tennessee A&I, where he majored in physical education. Rosey is married to the former Greta McKesson, and they have a 2½-year-old son, Roosevelt Jr. Davis completed work on his degree last year and now has his sights set on becoming a high school coach and teacher when his NFL days are over.

DARRELL DESS

GUARD
N. Carolina State

33 245 6-0

11TH YEAR
New Castle, Pa.

PRO: Dess is a fellow who has been around in the NFL. Originally drafted No. 11 by Washington, he was traded to Pittsburgh in 1958. Next, he moved to the Giants in 1959 in a trade for C. R. Roberts. After six years in New York, Darrell was shipped to Detroit as part of the deal for quarterback Earl Morrall in 1965. The same year, the Lions traded Dess to Washington, whence he had started a decade before. In 1966, the Giants re-acquired Darrell from the 'Skins in a trade for Jim Carroll and Steve Thurlow. The veteran guard has since undergone knee surgery, plus a surprise week-long retirement in 1967, but the Giants feel that he's still a valuable member of that offensive line.

SCHOOL: Dess won three varsity letters at N. Carolina State and was an All-Atlantic Coast Conference selection as a senior in 1958. He played three positions—center, guard and tackle. Darrell also won a wrestling letter at N. C. State—heavyweight, naturally!

PERSONAL: Darrell Dess was born on July 11, 1935, in New Castle, Pa., where he still lives and teaches school in the off-season. He is married to the former Carol Karner and they have two children; Michele Rae, 3; and Heidi Jo, 2. He is of German descent.

Medford, Ore.

PRO: Signed as a No. 8 draft choice for 1967, Eaton was better known as a basketball star at Oregon State, having played but one season of football. Scott came on so well in pre-season work that he won a starting cornerback position, and turned out to be a real find. Eaton is big, strong and has excellent reflexes. Aggressive tackler, Eaton also had two pass interceptions before suffering injuries which sidelined him late in season. Played offense for one play in 1967, catching 18-yard pass for big first down in win over Steelers.

SCHOOL: Eaton won three varsity letters in basketball at Oregon State and had attracted the attention of pro basketball scouts. His one season of football also drew the pro football scouts.

PERSONAL: Thomas Scott Eaton was born in Salem, Ore. on August 20, 1944 and now makes his home in Medford, Oregon. Scott is married to the former Jocelyn Marie Six of San Mateo, Calif., and is the father of a son Tracy, aged 3. Eaton lists his hobbies as fishing and hunting.

TUCKER FREDERICKSON

HALFBACK

Auburn University

25

220

6-2

3RD YEAR

Hollywood, Fla.

PRO: A unanimous selection on just about every All-American team in 1964, Tucker was the No. 1 draft choice of the Giants—and the first player selected in the NFL draft for the 1965 season. Frederickson enjoyed a sensational rookie season, gaining 659 yards rushing and tying for the club scoring lead—but since then, his has been a genuine hard luck story. Prior to his second NFL campaign, he suffered torn knee ligaments, was operated on, and missed the entire year. Coming back strong in 1967, his other knee was injured and he again underwent surgery. Two years... two knee operations! This kind of luck might be enough to dissuade a lesser athlete, but not Frederickson. He still hopes to become the All-

Pro running back everyone thought he would be when the Giants drafted him three years ago.

SCHOOL: "The greatest college football player in America!" That's what they called Frederickson in 1964 when, as Auburn's do-everything back, he was named to the AP, Look Magazine, Football Writers' Association, Sporting News, Helms Foundation and NEA All-America teams. He was also Player of the Year in the South, according to UPI, and won the same honor in the Southeastern Conference. He twice won the Jacobs Trophy, awarded annually to the best blocker in the SEC, and was named the outstanding athlete in the state of Florida in 1964. Tucker played in the North-South Shrine game and the Senior Bowl and starred both as an offensive and defensive performer. He earned four letters at Auburn, three in football and one in track.

PERSONAL: Ivan Charles Frederickson (Tucker is only a nickname) was born on January 12, 1943, in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the only boy in a family that includes three girls. His family later moved to Hollywood, Fla., where Tucker's dad, Ivan, Sr., a Canadian by birth, opened a veterinarian business. Tucker starred at South Broward High School and received dozens of college scholarship offers. He chose Auburn because it offered a sound pre-veterinarian course. A top student, Frederickson maintained a B average, received a degree in biological science and made Who's Who in American Colleges as an honor student. A bachelor, he now spends the off-seasons as a resident of Manhattan, where he works for a brokerage firm on Wall Street.

ANDY GROSS

OFFENSIVE GUARD

2ND YEAR

Auburn University 22 235 6-0 Elizabeth, N.J.

PRO: Signed as a free agent for 1967 after winning high scouting reports, Gross defied the experts who thought him "too small" to play pro guard and appeared in all 14 games with New York, principally on special teams. He saw some action at offensive guard where he proved to be extremely quick and strong.

SCHOOL: Three-year letterman at Auburn University, Andy played tackle for two seasons and guard for another, winning All-Southeastern Conference honors in both 1965 and 1966. Twice led Auburn in minutes played.

PERSONAL: Gross was born in Austria, coming to the United States with his family when he was five years old to settle in Elizabeth, N.J. where he still resides in the off-season. CHARLIE HARPER

TACKLE

3RD YEAR

Oklahoma State 23 245 6-0 Broken Arrow, Okla.

PRO: Selected No. 8 for 1966, Harper is a versatile reserve lineman who has played regularly at both guard and tackle. He was a standout defensive player in college but his quickness and blocking ability convinced Giant coaches that his future as a pro was on offense.

SCHOOL: A unanimous Big Eight selection and honorable mention All-American, Charlie led Oklahoma State in individual defensive statistics in 1964 and 1965—and by a wide margin. In three seasons he was credited with 75 unassisted tackles, 175 assisted tackles and four fumble recoveries. He turned in solid defensive performances in both the East-West and Shrine games. At Oklahoma State, Harper won three football letters.

PERSONAL: Charles Lynnwood Harper was born on August 14, 1944, in Haskell, Okla., and has one brother, Mike. The Harper clan later moved to Broken Arrow, Okla., where Charlie became an all-around high school star. He is married to the former Linda Sue Lawhorn. Harper is of Dutch and English descent and he's probably the best golfer on the Giant roster, shooting consistently in the mid-70's. He hopes for a career in optometry but concedes that coaching might beckon, too.

PRO: The No. 1 draft choice of the Baltimore Colts for the 1962 season, Harris joined the Giants prior to the 1966 campaign in a straight player trade for Andy Stynchula. Despite a recurring back injury and other ailments, Wendell has been a regular in the secondary for the past two seasons. PERSONAL: Wendell Harris was born on October 2, 1940, in Baton Rouge, La., and was an outstanding athlete at Baton Rouge High School prior to winning an athletic scholarship to LSU. He and his wife Freddie have two children: Kimberly, 5½; and Wendell III, 4.

CENTER

U. of Mississippi

26 235 6-2

2ND YEAR

PRO: The Giants drafted Hinton as a "future" on the 15th round back in 1964 at a time when Chuck had left school for a two-year hitch in the Navy. He returned to Ole Miss for the 1965-66 seasons and was rated by some pro scouts as one of the best collegiate centers in the country. As a Giant rookie in 1967, Hinton played on the special teams and saw a few minutes of action at center behind Greg Larson.

SCHOOL: Hinton captained the Ole Miss eleven in 1966, his senior year, won mention to the all-Southeastern Conference team and played in the East-West and Senior Bowl games. In 1965, he was voted the MVP in the Liberty Bowl game against Auburn.

FULLBACK

U. of Utah

26 215 6-0

4TH YEAR

Salt Lake City, Utah

PRO: Jacobs was drafted No. 10 as a "future" by Green Bay for 1965 season, spent his rookie year with the Packers as an understudy to Jim Taylor, and was traded to the Giants prior to the start of the 1966 campaign. He was New York's No. 3 rusher that season but, in 1967, injuries plagued him from the start and he wound up on the inactive list, having carried the ball only 11 times for 23 yards.

SCHOOL: Allen earned national reputé as a versatile fullback at the U. of Utah in 1963-64. He was a consistent short-yardage ground-gainer for the Vandals and also one of the best blocking backs in Utah history. In fact, it was his blocking prowess that attracted the attention of the pro scouts.

PERSONAL: Allen Winnitt Jacobs was born on May 19, 1941, in Los Angeles, Calif., was a top grinder at Glendale Junior College and eventually won a scholarship to the U. of Utah. He is married to the former Eva Ann Madsen and they have a daughter, Kelly Frances, who will be four in December. His hobbies include fishing, surfing and skiing.

HOMER JONES

OFFENSIVE END

Texas Southern

27 215 6-2

5TH YEAR

Pittsburgh, Tex.

PRO: Jones was the No. 20 draft choice of the Giants for the 1963 season even though, at the time of the NFL draft, he had already signed a contract with Houston of the rival AFL. When the Oilers released Homer mid-way through training camp that year he called the Giants and asked if they were still interested. The answer was "yes," so he took the next plane to New York. Minor knee surgery forced him to spend 1963 and part of 1964 on the taxi squad but once Homer took the retired Frank Gifford's place in the lineup, there was no stopping him. In the ensuing three years, Jones has blitzed the NFL for 127 receptions, 3,044 yards and 27 touchdowns. In each of those seasons, he led the league in average-yards-per-catch with 27.3 in 1965, 21.8 in 1966 and 24.7 in 1967. Last year he led the NFL in TDs with 14 and became the only man in Giant history except Del Shofner to amass over 1,000 yards receiving two years in succession. Today the Houston Oiler reject ranks as the premier deep receiver in all of professional football—a rugged 220-pounder who can out-run everyone except perhaps Bob Hayes of Dallas. SCHOOL: Homer was a two-sport star at Texas Southern, winning six letters—three in football and three in track. He led Texas Southern in pass receiving for two straight years and was also a top running back. As a dash man in track, Jones once ran the hundred in 9.3 and set a conference record with a 20.7 clocking in the 220 around a turn. He won a Gold Medal for the U.S. track team that mauled the Russians in a 1960 dual meet at Los Angeles.

PERSONAL: Homer Carroll Jones was born on February 18, 1941, in Pittsburgh, Tex., which is still his home. He majored in industrial education at Texas Southern and would some day like to coach on the high school level. Homer is married and has two children. Not one for the big city life, Jones prefers to spend his off-season months at home in Pittsburgh, where he pursues his favorite past-time—fishing.

JIM KATCAVAGE

DEFENSIVE END

U. of Dayton

34

245

6-2

13TH YEAR

Philadelphia, Pa.

PRO: Katcavage was the Giants' fourth-round draft choice for 1956 and came to New York in the great rookie crop that also produced Don Chandler and Sam Huff. He won a starting berth at defensive end later that season and took part in the 47-7 championship game rout of the Chicago Bears. "Kat" labored in the shadow of such illustrious names as Robustelli, Huff and Grier for many years but eventually came into his own, winning AP and UPI All-Pro honors in 1961-62-63. The Giants' defensive captain now ranks as one of the all-time defensive ends in the NFL. Jim has appeared in two Pro Bowl games—1963 and 1964. Although "Kat" has been around the NFL scene for 13 successful and demanding seasons—longer than most pros endure—he is not yet ready to admit that the end of the road is in sight. "When you've been around as long as I have," he says, "it only means you have to work harder to keep your job. And that's what I try to do. The legs may go but a guy learns tricks along the way that help him get the job done just the same. It gets harder all the time but, to me, it's worth the effort, the extra sweat, the aches and pains. No matter how tough pro football is, it isn't as tough as not being a part of the game."

SCHOOL: Jim was a standout end for the U. of Dayton, playing both ways, but he made his mark as a defensive lineman. He was mentioned on several All-American teams in 1954-55 and also appeared in the East-West and College All Star games after finishing his career at Dayton.

PERSONAL: James Katcavage was born on October 28, 1934, in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. He is married to the former Kathleen Gould and they have a three-year-old daughter, Kathleen. Jim's younger brother, Bob, followed him as grid star at Dayton. "Kat," who served in the Army as a Pfc., is of Lithuanian descent. He makes his permanent home in Philadelphia and devotes much of his off-season time to making personal appearances.

TOM KENNEDY

QUARTERBACK

L.A. State

29

195

6-1

3RD YEAR

New York City

PRO: Kennedy is a fellow who followed a highly circuitous route before winding up with the Giants in 1966. Originally drafted by the Cleveland Browns, Tom signed with Los Angeles in 1964, was released, joined the Wheeling (W. Va.) Ironmen in a semi-pro league, went to the Pittsburgh Steelers taxi squad in 1965, then to the Rhode Island Indians of the Continental League, from there to the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1966 and, finally, to the Giants that same season. The Maramen bought Tom's contract from Brooklyn when an injury to Earl Morrall left them with only Gary Wood at quarterback. Kennedy responded with several fine performances in the NFL and finished with 55 completions in 100 tries for 748 yards, seven TDs and a completion mark of 55.0%. In 1967, Tom suffered a broken collar bone in training, underwent corrective surgery and spent the rest of the season on the inactive list.

SCHOOL: Tom started at Palmdale (Calif.) Junior College in 1957 and then transferred to Los Angeles State in 1959. At L.A. State, he won six letters, four in football and two in baseball, and made the UPI Little All-Coast squad in 1961. He was also a baseball All-American honorable mention. Tom holds most of the single season and career passing marks at L.A. State and was captain of the team as a senior. His biggest day in college was against U. of the Pacific in 1961 when he completed 19 of 24 for 200 yards and two TDs.

PERSONAL: Thomas Patrick Kennedy was born on November 27, 1939, in Maywood, Calif., and spent most of his early years in Pasadena. A bachelor with a degree in physical education, Tom served as a Pfc. with the Marine Corps. He aspires to a career in coaching but at present he spends his off-season months as a model and part-time actor. Tom is of Irish descent although his mother was born in Denmark and his father in Canada. He has one brother, Royden, who also played college football.

DICK KOTITE

OFFENSIVE END				1ST YEAR
Wagner College	25	235	6-3	Brooklyn, N.Y.

PRO: Signed as a free agent out of little Wagner College, Kotite made a favorable impression on the Giant coaching staff in training camp in 1967 and was eventually assigned to the club's Westchester Bulls farm eleven in Mt. Vernon, where he played tight end and a lot of linebacker. Dick has good hands, is aggressive and is of average speed.

SCHOOL: The pass receiving section of the Wagner College record book belongs almost exclusively to Kotite. His records include: career receiving yardage (2,065), career receptions (119), season receiving yardage (943), most receptions for one season (56) and most receptions in a single game (9 vs. Trenton State in 1964). Dick caught seven TD aeriels and made first team Little All America in 1964 as he led Wagner to an undefeated 10-0 record. He spent one year at Miami University (where he was heavyweight boxing champ) before transferring to Wagner.

PERSONAL: Richard Edward Kotite was born on October 13, 1942, in Brooklyn, N.Y., and still lives there with his parents. He was a B average student in economics and is working toward a Master's in marketing and management. Dick is a creative writer in his spare time and says he wants to coach high school football in the future. He is of Lebanese descent.

ERNIE KOY

HALFBACK				4TH YEAR
U. of Texas	25	230	6-3	Bellville, Tex.

PRO: Koy was the Giants' No. 11 draft pick for the 1965 season and was a member of the famed Baby Bulls backfield, but it wasn't until 1967, his third year in the NFL, that Ernie finally established himself as a premier pro running back. Leading a Giant attack that narrowly missed the league total yardage title, the big Texan rushed 146 times for 704 yards (a 4.8 average), caught 32 passes for 212 yards, scored five TDs and completed three of four option passes. He followed this up with a sterling performance in the Pro Bowl game. Ernie has known both the ups and downs of a pro football player during his brief career. As a rookie he showed flashes of brilliance but in his second year injuries and mental pressures slowed him down to a walk and he failed to live up to his rookie form. In 1967, however, he came on strong and now stands as the club's No. 1 running back.

SCHOOL: Although hampered by injuries during his first two years at the U. of Texas, Koy catapulted into national prominence in 1964 as the Longhorns rolled to a 9-1 record and then knocked off Joe Namath's favored Alabama team in the Orange Bowl. Ernie sewed that one up with two scoring runs, one an Orange Bowl record 79-yard romp. He was a tower of strength for Texas all that year, carrying 154 times for 574 yards and averaging four yards a try. As a soph, in 1962, Ernie was sidelined with torn knee ligaments. The following year a shoulder separation kept him on the bench. All told, Koy won four letters at Texas and played in the Cotton Bowl twice, the Orange Bowl and the Hula Bowl.

PERSONAL: Ernie Koy, Jr., was born on October 22, 1942, in Bellville, Tex., where his family owns a large cattle ranch. Ernie, Sr., was a legend in the Southwest in the early 1930s, an All-American in football and baseball. He later played major league ball with the Brooklyn Dodgers, St. Louis Cardinals, Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies. Ernie, Sr., was known as The Chief but he insists there isn't a drop of Indian blood in the family. Young Ernie was the No. 3 draft choice of Houston of the AFL but chose the Giants because "...the NFL plays the best football and besides, my daddy told me so much about New York City that I wanted to see it for myself." Ernie majored in history at Texas and holds a B.A. degree. Still a bachelor, he recently bought his own ranch near Bellville and is planning to build it up gradually while he's playing pro football.

GREG LARSON

CENTER

U. of Minnesota 29 250 6-3 Minneapolis, Minn.

8TH YEAR

PRO: Now the dean of Giant offensive linemen, Greg Larson was the club's No. 6 draft choice for 1961. Over the ensuing seven years he has developed into a team leader and one of the most respected players in the NFL. Greg played three different positions during his first three seasons—tackle in 1961, guard in 1962 and center, his natural position, in 1963 when Ray Wietecha retired. In 1964 Larson suffered a serious knee injury and underwent surgery. The mishap threatened to end his career but, by dogged determination, the big Swede fought his way back into playing condition and, in 1966, the Touchdown Club of New York awarded him the annual "Comeback Award." Greg's victory over that injury has served as an inspiration for other Giant players who suffered similar fates.

SCHOOL: Greg was the regular center and linebacker for Minnesota's 1961 Rose Bowl team. He was an AP and UPI all-conference selection, all-Big Ten and also earned a spot on the Catholic All-American squad that year. As captain of the Gophers, he starred in the Rose Bowl and also played in the Senior Bowl and the College All Star game. Off his fine collegiate record, it was surprising that Larson lasted through the first five rounds of the pro player draft.

PERSONAL: Greg Larson was born on November 15, 1939, in Minneapolis, Minnesota. He is married to the former Josephine Blegen and they have three children; Karin, 6; Barton, 4; and Michael, 2.

CARL LOCKHART

DEFENSIVE BACK

N. Texas State

25 175 6-2

4TH YEAR

Roosevelt, L.I.

PRO: An original member of Emlen's Gremlins — the speedy secondary unit handled by defensive backfield coach Emlen Tunnell — Lockhart was the Giants No. 13 draft choice for 1965 on the strong recommendation of scout and onetime defensive mentor Frank (Pop) Ivy. It has to be one of the best selections ever made by New York. Spider won a regular job as a rookie that year, tying veteran Dick Lynch for the club interception lead with four, and has been a mainstay of the secondary. His three-year totals show 15 interceptions for 175 yards. Not big or overly fast, Spider is nevertheless a fine pro defensive back — quick, agile, smart, aggressive, a real ballhawk. When not patrolling the picket lines, Lockhart fills in as the club's top punt return man.

SCHOOL: Carl was a three-year letterman at North Texas State, playing both defensive halfback and flanker despite the two-platoon system. His college record shows 60 carries for 237 yards rushing, 32 pass receptions for 384 yards and four TDs, 10 interceptions and 95 punts for a near 40-yard average. In 1963 and 1964 he led the tough Missouri Valley Conference in punting. He was a two-time all-conference pick and received honorable mention on several All-American teams. An all-around athlete, Spider also played baseball at N. Texas State and was a stand-out hurdler in track.

PERSONAL: Lockhart was born on April 6, 1943, in Dallas, Tex., into a family of seven children and lived in Texas until two years ago when he bought a home in Roosevelt, L.I., an hour's drive from Yankee Stadium. He is married to the former Erma Jean Havis. Carl majored in physical education at N. Texas State but now works for an insurance firm in Manhattan in the off-season.

BOB LURTSEMA

DEFENSIVE TACKLE

Western Michigan

26 252 6-6

2ND YEAR

Grand Rapids, Mich.

PRO: Signed by the Baltimore Colts as a free agent in 1966, Lurtsema spent that season with the Colts taxi squad at Harrisburg. He came to the Giants in exchange for a high draft choice prior to the 1967 season, and won a starting berth almost immediately. His improvement from week to week was outstanding, and by season's end was an accomplished pass rusher and solid performer. He was the only member of the defensive unit to win Honorable Mention honors in UPI's All-NFL poll.

SCHOOL: Bob began his collegiate career at Michigan Tech, then finished at Western Michigan where he was an outstanding defensive football player.

PERSONAL: Born in Grand Rapids, Mich., on March 29, 1942, Bob still makes his home there. Possessor of a mechanical engineering degree, Lurtsema works for the Dow Chemical Co. in the off-season as a product engineer. He's married to the former Ann Samson of Newport, R.I., and the father of a daughter, Alisa Ann, aged 18 months.

RANDY MINNIEAR

RUNNING BACK

Purdue U.

24

210

6-1

2ND YEAR

New York City

PRO: Minniear, the Giants' last-round draft choice (No. 20) for 1966, is a fellow who knows what to do when opportunity knocks twice. As a rookie, Randy was off to a blazing start in camp when a broken leg sidelined him — on crutches — for the entire campaign. He tried a comeback in 1967 but inactivity had slowed him down, so he was assigned to the Giants' Westchester Bulls farm club. Randy worked hard in the minors to regain his running form and, when an injury to Tucker Frederickson opened a spot on the roster mid-way through the season, he was called on to fill the void. He did a commendable job, too, carrying 35 times for 98 yards, a 2.8 average, catching eight passes for 49 yards and scoring two TDs.

SCHOOL: Despite a foot injury which incapacitated him for several games as a senior in 1965, Minniear was Purdue's second leading rusher, a star receiver and the team's best kickoff return man. As a junior, he led all Purdue scorers with 54 points. He made all-Big Ten and later captained the North side in the annual North-South classic.

PERSONAL: Randolph Minniear was born on December 27, 1943, in Indianapolis, Ind., but now makes his permanent home in North Tacoma, Wash. — that is, when he isn't living in his New York City bachelor apartment. Randy spent last off-season making personal appearances for the Giants, and won a legion of fans with his likeable, warm manner. He aims for a career in insurance or coaching but hasn't really made up his mind yet. He is of German descent.

JIM MORAN

DEFENSIVE TACKLE

U. of Idaho

26

275

6-5

5TH YEAR

Spokane, Wash.

PRO: Moran was the No. 10 draft choice for the 1964 season and came into pro ball with high recommendations. Unfortunately, he has been something of a hard luck guy ever since. As a rookie in 1964 he suffered a serious ankle injury with the College All Stars and spent most of the year in a cast, seeing only brief action at the tailend of the campaign. Big Jim was impressive at the start of 1965 but tore some knee ligaments and underwent surgery. He returned in 1966, was plagued by injuries again, and was sent to the Giants' Scranton (Pa.) farm team to work himself into condition. For half of the 1967 campaign, Moran was the club's regular right tackle on defense but once again bad luck interrupted his career; he broke his leg in several places against Pittsburgh and was operated on, finishing out the year in an ankle-to-hip cast. So, after four years, Jim is still trying to prove he belongs in the NFL — and that he is not really a hard luck guy, after all.

SCHOOL: Jim was a two-way tackle at Idaho, several times earning Lineman of the Week in the AP poll. He earned most of his recognition as a hard-charging defensive pass-rusher. Idaho coach Dee Andros once said, "Jim is the kind of defensive tackle who makes the whole line look good."

PERSONAL: James Harry Moran was born on May 4, 1942, in Spokane, Wash., where he still makes his off-season home. He graduated from Gonzaga Prep in 1960 and had many college grid offers. He and his wife, the former Eleanor Hagenbarth, who were married while they were still in high school, are the parents of five children, including a set of twins. Jim majored in physical education and finished work towards his degree at Gonzaga University. He hopes to teach and coach.

EARL MORRALL

QUARTERBACK

Michigan State

34

205

6-2

13TH YEAR

Dearborn, Mich.

PRO: Morrall was San Francisco's top draft choice in 1956 and has since played for three other NFL clubs — Pittsburgh (1957), Detroit (1958-64) and New York (1965-67). He was acquired by the Giants in a trade with the Lions prior to the 1965 season, and the Maramen paid a high price — Erich Barnes and Darrell Dess. But Earl was easily worth the price that year. He finished fifth among NFL passers with 155 of 302 for 2,446 yards and 22 TDs and guided a green Giant team to a tie for second in the east. A broken wrist sidelined Morrall for half the 1966 season and in 1967 he was No. 2 man behind Fran Tarkenton.

SCHOOL: An All-American quarterback (AP, NEA, Look and Colliers) at Michigan State, Earl starred in the 1956 Rose Bowl game and the 1956 College All Star game. He held the NCAA record of average yards per completion in college was regarded as the top quarterback in the Big Ten. He also played three years of varsity baseball for the Spartans and held the dubious distinction of owning the Big Ten record of five errors in one game, a mark later broken by Harvey Kuenn.

PERSONAL: Earl Edwin Morrall was born in Muskegon, Mich., on May 17, 1934, and went on to become a great athlete at Muskegon Senior High. He comes from a family of three boys and both his parents were native Michiganites. He is married to the former Jane Marlene Whitehead and they have four children — Matt, 11; Mardi, 10; Mindi, 6 and Mitchell, 1. Earl holds a degree in engineering from Michigan State and represents Gar Wood Industries. He also has experience as a radio and TV sports analyst with CBS. Earl is of English descent. Golf is his favorite game — after football — and he shoots in the low 90s.

JOE MORRISON

FLANKER

U. of Cincinnati

31 215 6-1

10TH YEAR

Lima, O.

PRO: One of the most versatile players in NFL annals, Morrison was the Giants' No. 3 draft choice for the 1959 season and, over the ensuing nine seasons, has played no less than six different positions, rolling up total yardage of 5,202 — 1,867 yards rushing and 3,335 yards receiving, to say nothing of a few hundred additional yards on kickoff and punt returns. Joe is not overly fast but he runs with power and a fine change of pace, and there aren't many better when it comes to running pass routes; he's a master at that phase of the game. As the Giants' chief rescue artist, Joe has at one time or another played halfback, fullback, flanker, tight end, split end and, yes, even safety on defense. In 1966, when injuries depleted the Giants' quarterback corps, coach Sherman had Morrison working out behind center — just in case.

SCHOOL: Joe was one of Cincinnati's all-time greats. He set a school scoring record of 128 points, and tied another individual mark with 21 touchdowns. He was a standout quarterback as a soph and junior but was switched to halfback in 1958. He responded by leading the Missouri Valley Conference scorers with 56 points, by rushing for 467 yards and a 4.7 average and by catching 27 passes for 330 yards. In between, he was Cincy's top defensive back, too.

PERSONAL: Joe Morrison was born on August 21, 1937. He is married to the former Barbara McDorman and they have three children; Ricky, 10½; Jeffery, 8; and Shelly, 7. Joe works for a steel company in Ohio (personnel relations) during the off-season and also is part-owner of a restaurant in New Rochelle, N.Y. He is of Scotch-Irish descent.

LES MURDOCK

KICKER

Florida State

27

245

6-3

2ND YEAR

Melbourne, Fla.

PRO: Murdock was signed as a free agent by the Green Bay Packers for 1967 and after appearing in three pre-season games came to the Giants. In his first appearance, Les kicked two field goals against the Eagles in a pre-season game, then was the club's regular kicker until Pete Gogolak arrived back on the scene. Les kicked 13 conversions and four field goals in his five regular season appearances, including two against Washington and a 38-yarder against Dallas.

SCHOOL: Murdock was a fine all-around athlete at Florida State where he won varsity letters for three years. In addition to his place-kicking, he was a fine end.

PERSONAL: Murdock was born June 6, 1941 in Boston, Mass., and resides during the off-season in Melbourne, Fla., where he is an administrative assistant to the city manager. He's married to the former Sally Luce of Melbourne.

BOB POST

DEFENSIVE BACK

Kings Point MMA

24

195

6-2

2ND YEAR

New York City

PRO: Signed as a free agent for the 1966 season, Post spent that campaign as a quarterback with the Scranton Miners of the Atlantic Coast League, suffered a shoulder injury that required surgery and finished in the hospital. In 1967, the Giants switched the fine athlete to defensive back, gave him more seasoning with the Westchester Bulls, a farm team, and then brought him up to the NFL near the end of the year. Bob is an exceptional tackler and a fine ball-hawk but needs more time to make the transition from quarterback to the secondary.

SCHOOL: As a strong-armed quarterback, Post completed over 42% of his passes over three seasons at Kings Point, and set Academy records with 152 points and 15 TD passes. He had his biggest day against Penn Military with 13 for 22 for 192 yards, one TD, 80 yards rushing, and a 53-yard scoring run.

PERSONAL: Robert Post was born on January 12, 1944, in Twin Falls, Idaho, and later moved with his family to Tracy, Calif., where he blossomed into a fine athlete and earned an appointment to Kings Point. Bob is of English-Dutch descent. He holds a degree in marine transportation and has made several off-season trips to Vietnam.

JEFF SMITH

LINEBACKER
U.S.C.

23 237 6-0

3RD YEAR
Long Beach, Cal.

PRO: Jeff was drafted No. 10 for 1966 and was one of several rookies who lived up to their advance billing that year. Big, strong and mobile, he won a starting job as a freshman, establishing himself as a pro linebacker of considerable promise. But in 1967, Jeff was laid low by a knee injury that required surgery and he missed the entire campaign. Doctors say he should be able to come back stronger than ever in 1968.

SCHOOL: Smith had an outstanding year at Southern Cal as a senior in 1965, winning both AP and UPI all-West Coast first team designation as well as All-America honorable mention. He started the season as a defensive end but was switched to linebacker, where he turned in 55 unassisted and 53 assisted tackles to earn USC's "Hitter of the Year" award. He capped his collegiate career with a starring performance in the East-West Shrine game.

PERSONAL: Jeff Smith was born in Long Beach, Cal., on November 11, 1943, and still a bachelor, he lives there when he isn't in New York playing football.

RANDY STATEN

DEFENSIVE END
U. of Minnesota

23 230 6-1

2ND YEAR
Charlotte, N.C.

PRO: Signed as a free agent for the 1966 season, Staten impressed the Giants sufficiently to be carried on their Scranton Miners farm club that year. He was a regular at guard for the Miners until a knee injury sent him under the surgeon's scalpel. In 1967, Randy was moved over to defensive end, where he played behind regulars Jim Katcavage and Glen Condren.

SCHOOL: Staten was Minnesota's regular right guard for two seasons and was regarded as one of the quickest, hardest hitting Gopher linemen in recent years. Despite his size, he once ran the hundred in 9.9 at Minnesota. This great mobility is what helped him make the switch to defensive end last year with the Giants.

PERSONAL: Randolph Wilbert Staten was born on January 24, 1944, in Charlotte, N.C., into a family of four children (3 boys, 1 girl). He starred at fullback, end and guard in high school and received numerous scholarship offers. He is married to the former Ruby Funderburk and they have a 4-year-old son, Randy Jr. Staten majored in speech at Minnesota and hopes to become a guidance counselor or to enter politics. He reads a lot and likes classical music.

BILL SWAIN

LINEBACKER

U. of Oregon

27

230

6-2

6TH YEAR

New York City

PRO: Swain was signed as a free agent by Los Angeles in 1963, played for the Minnesota Vikings in 1964 and came to the Giants in a trade (for a draft choice) prior to the 1965 season. He won a regular corner job that year but was sidelined in 1966 with torn knee ligaments. In 1967, though, Bill came back strong and regained his place in the lineup. Swain's successful comeback was the direct result of a determined rehabilitation program during which he overcame the torn knee ligaments but also the effects of slight nerve damage to his foot. Progress was slow in the early going and there was some doubt as to whether Bill could play again. But a concentrated schedule of treatments and work—and more work—eventually enabled him to regain the full use of his damaged leg. When camp opened, Swain served notice that he had come to play and that his knee problems were a thing of the past. He now looms as one of the Giants' bright young prospects for the future.

SCHOOL: Although Bill was not considered a top pro prospect at Oregon, where he played center, he caught the eye of Swede Svare, now the Giants' defensive coach, who was then head man for the Rams. Swede signed him as a free agent and made him an outside linebacker. Swain won three letters at Oregon.

PERSONAL: William Steve Swain was born on February 22, 1941, in Dickinson, N. Dakota. Shortly thereafter, his family moved to North Bend, Ore., where his play as a high school lineman attracted the eye of U. of Oregon scouts. Bill majored in physical education at Oregon. A bachelor, he now makes his off-season home in New York City, where he shares a swank East Side apartment with teammate Tucker Frederickson. Bill is a sales representative for a large printing company but gets in as much surfing and scuba diving as he can. He is of German-Irish descent.

FRAN TARKENTON

QUARTERBACK
U. of Georgia

28 190 6-0

8TH YEAR
Atlanta, Ga.

PRO: Tarkenton was the No. 3 draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings when that franchise began play in the NFL in 1961. After six sensational seasons with Minnesota, he was traded to New York in 1967 for two No. 1 and one No. 2 draft picks. Fran responded by completing 204 of 377 passes for 3,088 yards and a second-place total of 29 TD aeriels, bringing his amazing seven-year total to 1,228 completions in 2,276 attempts for 17,667 yards and 142 touchdowns. A renowned scrambler, Fran also has piled up 2,204 yards rushing, a 6.5 average, and has run the ball over for 17 touchdowns. He ranks among the NFL's all-time passing greats and, over his first seven pro campaigns, he has surpassed the achievements of all other NFL quarterbacks except Johnny Unitas for a similar period.

SCHOOL: Francis earned All-American honors as a free-wheeling quarterback for the U. of Georgia in 1960. He was also a two-time all-SEC choice, the most valuable player in the SEC (1960) and the owner of the best completion average among collegiate passers (58.4). He was red-hot as a junior for the Bulldogs with 170 of 287 for 1,925 yards and 13 TDs. He was MVP in the Hula Bowl game of 1961. A top student, Tarkenton played defensive halfback at Georgia and, characteristically, did a fine job there, too.

PERSONAL: Francis Asbury Tarkenton, the son of a Methodist minister, was born on February 3, 1940, in Richmond, Va., and was named after the first Methodist missionary in this country, Francis Asbury. Fran is married to the former Elaine Merrell and they have a daughter, Angela, now 3. In addition to pro football, Fran is an up-and-coming executive with the Coca-Cola Co. in Atlanta and also dabbles in radio and television work. He is an avid golfer who shoots in the 80s and who makes it to The Masters (as a spectator, natch!) every Spring.

AARON THOMAS

OFFENSIVE END

Oregon State

30

210

6-3

8TH YEAR

Larchmont, N.Y.

PRO: Thomas was the fourth-round draft pick of the San Francisco 49ers in 1961 and came into the NFL with the reputation of being one of the brightest young receiving stars in many years. The Giants got him prior to the 1962 campaign in a straight player trade for halfback Bobby Gaiters. After two seasons of reserve duty, Aaron came into his own in 1964 as the club's leading receiver and has been at the top—or close to it—every year since. He hit his personal high in 1967 when he led New York in catches with 51 for 877 yards and nine TDs, playing both tight end and flanker. He is rated the fastest tight end in pro ball. Aaron's seven-year receiving totals show 205 catches for 3,665 yards, 29 touchdowns and a sparkling 18.9-per-catch average, one of the best in the league over that span. At his present rate, the long-gaited end is a good bet to move into the No. 4 spot in all-time Giant receiving by the end of the 1968 season. The retired Del Shofner holds that position with 239 receptions, so a total of 45 catches this year will put Thomas at 240. (Fifteen of his career receptions were made as a Forty-Niner rookie in 1961, which means Aaron's Giant total as 1968 began was 195). Rival NFL defensive backs rate Thomas as one of the toughest ends in the game to cover. He's got an amazingly-long stride, wonderful moves and the size to outfight a defender for the football at close quarters. That's what makes him ideally suited to his dual role of flanker and tight end for coach Allie Sherman.

SCHOOL: Although Oregon State coach Tommy Prothro called him "...the best end I've ever coached," Thomas had an in-and-out collegiate career because of injuries. He missed most of his senior year and as a junior had 13 catches for 165 yards. Still, he showed enough potential to excite NFL talent-hunters. Thomas captained Oregon State as a senior and went on to play in the College All Star game.

PERSONAL: Thomas was born on November 7, 1937, in Dierks, Ark. His family moved to the small California town of Weed, where he became a legendary high school athlete. Aaron is married to the former Jeanie Cairney and they have three sons; Todd, six; Troy, five; and Robb, 2½. The Thomas family now makes its year-round home in Larchmont, N.Y., and Aaron commutes daily to Wall Street where he works for a brokerage house.

LOU THOMPSON

GUARD

1ST YEAR

U. of Alabama

23

240

6-2

Lebanon, Tenn.

PRO: Thompson was the Giants' top draft selection for 1967. He was picked on the fourth round since New York had traded away its first three choices, two of them in the Fran Tarkenton deal. Lou came up as a defensive lineman but was switched to offensive guard and farmed out to the Westchester Bulls, where he developed rapidly under former Giants' line coach Ed Kolman, who says Lou has matured enough to make it in the NFL.

SCHOOL: A late starter at Alabama, Lou was only third string as a junior but moved up fast and was a starting defensive tackle as a senior. One of the fastest linemen in 'Bama history, he led the fierce defensive charge that stopped Nebraska, 34-7, in the 1967 Sugar Bowl. Thompson also played in the 1965 and 1966 Orange Bowl games.

PERSONAL: Martin Louis Thompson was born on April 9, 1945, in Lebanon, Tenn., and he still lives there. He was an all-state fullback at Lebanon High and also played end. Thompson is married to the former Peggy McDonald and right now he leans toward a career in coaching. Lou, who is of Irish descent, has served in the Air Force Reserve.

BILL TRIPLETT

RUNNING BACK

6TH YEAR

Miami of Ohio

27

210

6-2

St. Louis, Mo.

PRO: Originally drafted No. 6 by New York back in 1962, Triplett was traded to St. Louis (for Ralph Guglielmi) before he ever pulled on a Giant jersey. He had two fine seasons with the Cardinals (1963 and 1965) but missed the entire 1964 campaign when he came down with a case of tuberculosis. In 1966, Bill lost his starting job to Johnny Roland and, the following year, he came to the Giants in a trade for linebacker Jerry Hillebrand.

SCHOOL: Bill, a younger brother of ex-Giants' fullback Mel Triplett, had a brilliant career as a running back at Miami of Ohio and was the first player from that school ever selected to appear in the East-West Shrine game.

PERSONAL: William Clarence Triplett was born on May 4, 1940, in Shaw, Miss., but grew up around Girard, O. He and his wife Jacqueline have three children. Bill works with the community relations division of the St. Louis Police Department in the off-season.

Bill Triplett's Rushing Record:

DOUG VAN HORN

OFFENSIVE GUARD

Ohio State

24 245 6-2

2ND YEAR

Columbus, Ohio

PRO: Van Horn was the No. 4 draft choice of the Detroit Lions for 1966, and appeared in all 14 games with the Lions that year, chiefly with special teams, though he saw some action at guard. Late reporting in 1967 because of Army duty. Lions released him and Giants signed Doug as free agent. Kept as member of taxi squad with Westchester Bulls in 1967, he had top season after getting back into playing condition.

SCHOOL: Doug was a topflight performer at Ohio State, winning both AP and UPI All-American designation in 1965. Also picked on Coaches All-American team.

PERSONAL: Doug was born on June 24, 1944 in Sedalia, Mo., and now makes his off-season home in Columbus, Ohio. He served six months on active duty with the Army in 1967, and is continuing studies in the marketing field during off-seasons. Doug is married to the former Connie Jean Wilson of Columbus.

LARRY VARGO

LINEBACKER

U. of Detroit

29 220 6-3

7TH YEAR

Detroit, Mich.

PRO: Vargo was drafted on the 11th round as a "future" by the Detroit Lions in 1961 as an offensive end and was subsequently shifted to defensive back. He was traded to the Minnesota Vikings in 1964 and was a regular free safety until coming to the Giants in a trade prior to the 1966 campaign. With New York, Larry made yet another position switch — this time to corner linebacker. Unfortunately, he was struck down by knee injuries both years, requiring surgery each time. Larry is not big as pro linebackers go but he has speed, range and is a fine tackler.

SCHOOL: A top receiver at the U. of Detroit, Larry was the nation's fifth-ranking pass catcher in 1961 with 32 receptions. He had his best day as a collegian against Navy with 11 catches for three TDs. He was later named to the Catholic All-American team and then played in the Senior Bowl and North-South Shrine game.

PERSONAL: Vargo was born on April 5, 1939, in Mountain, Mich., and attended high school in Detroit, where he still resides. In the off-season he is employed as a salesman for a garage door manufacturer. Larry, who is of Slovak-Italian descent, is married to the former Hilda Gallucci and they have three children; Larry Stephen, 6; Laura Lynn, 5; and Lee Ann, 1½.

ED WEISACOSKY

LINEBACKER

2ND YEAR

Miami University 24 225 6-1 Hackensack, N.J.

PRO: Weisacosky was signed as a free agent by the San Francisco 49ers for 1967, then came to the Giants in exchange for a draft choice prior to the season opener. Ed was a starter early in the season, then put in a lot of time with the special team units. He had two key fumble recoveries, and also made a recovery of a blocked punt that led to a TD against Cleveland at Yankee Stadium.

SCHOOL: Ed was a three-year letterman at Miami University, winning defensive honors in his senior year with the Hurricanes. He had originally begun his college career at West Chester State in Pennsylvania before transferring to Miami.

PERSONAL: Ed was born on May 4, 1944 in Pottsville, Pa., where he still resides in the off-season. Married to the former Nancy Attwater, Ed is the father of a son, Jason, aged one. Weisacosky lists weight-lifting, hunting and skiing as his favorite hobbies.

FREEMAN WHITE

DEFENSIVE BACK

3RD YEAR

U. of Nebraska 24 225 6-5 Detroit, Mich.

PRO: Although he was an All-American pass-catcher at Nebraska, White has spent his first two years as a professional on defense, first as a linebacker in 1966 and last year as a safetyman. Freeman was the Giants' No. 9 draft choice for 1966 after setting a flock of receiving records at Nebraska. Although his future seems to be with the defense, coach Allie Sherman has not forgotten that White has the ability to play end in the NFL.

SCHOOL: White was a standout at Nebraska, leading the Cornhuskers to a 22-game winning streak over a three-year span. He set seven pass-catching records, including total receptions for both season and career, most yardage for season and career, and longest touchdown reception. He was named to the 1965 All-America team and was twice all-Big Eight. Freeman played in the 1964 and 1966 Orange Bowl games, the 1965 Cotton Bowl and the 1966 Hula Bowl. He also earned varsity letters in basketball at Nebraska.

PERSONAL: Freeman White was born on December 17, 1943, in Montgomery, Ala., but grew up around Detroit, which is still his home. He holds a degree in industrial relations. His boyhood football idol was ex-Cleveland great Jimmy Brown. Freeman lists record collecting as his pet past-time. He is married to the former Lorene Messman and they have one child, Kember Lee, who is two years old.

WILLIE WILLIAMS

DEFENSIVE BACK				4TH YEAR
Grambling College	25	190	6-1	Atlanta, Ga.

PRO: Willie was a No. 8 draft choice of the Giants for 1965, then spent that season as a utility defensive back with the Giants and as a kickoff and punt return man. He had one interception, 18 punt returns and five kickoff returns as a rookie. He spent 1966 season with Oakland Raiders of AFL, then returned to Giants halfway through 1967 season, moving in as a cornerman when Henry Carr was injured. Willie had one interception for 44-yard return in 1967 and averaged 4.7 on 10 punt returns.

SCHOOL: Williams was a five-letterman at Grambling, winning four in football as a flanker and defensive back and one in track where he was a 9.7 man in the 100-yard dash. He led Grambling in pass receiving in 1964 and played in Orange Blossom Classic that year.

PERSONAL: Born on December 29, 1942 in Atlanta, Ga., Willie still makes his home there. Willie is now working on his Master's Degree in physical education and hopes to coach someday. Married to the former Mary Ann Williams, Willie is the father of a daughter, Lazarus, aged one.

STEVE WRIGHT

TACKLE				5TH YEAR
U. of Alabama	26	250	6-6	Milwaukee, Wis.

PRO: Wright was picked No. 5 by the Green Bay Packers for the 1964 season. He was a starting tackle for the Packers for one season (1964) but was used mainly as a reserve and as a special teams man. He came to the Giants with Tommy Joe Crutcher in 1968 in a deal for Francis Peay. Steve is rated as a top pass blocker.

SCHOOL: At Alabama, Wright played tackle both ways but did not earn conference recognition. In fact, as a senior he was on the second team. "I don't know how the Packer scouts ever found me," he says with a laugh.

PERSONAL: Steve Wright was born on July 18, 1942, in Louisville, Ky., and now makes his permanent home in Milwaukee, Wis. A bachelor who majored in sociology at Alabama, Steve served one off-season (1964) with the Army at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. At the time of his trade to the Giants, he worked for an adhesive manufacturer in Milwaukee.

WILLIE YOUNG

DEFENSIVE TACKLE
Grambling College

24 255 6-0

3RD YEAR
Ruston, La.

PRO: Signed as a free agent for 1966 on the advice of coach Em Tunnell, Young was one of the "finds" of the year for New York. He started as a guard in training camp, had a brief spin at defensive tackle (which included starting assignments in several league games) and finally made his way to offensive tackle. As a rookie tackle, Willie showed real promise; the following year he was the club's most consistent tackle and improved with every game. The Giants feel Young will someday rank with the top men at that position.

SCHOOL: Grambling coach Eddie Robinson knew what he was talking about when he said, "Young is a solid bet to make the grade as an NFL lineman." At Grambling, Willie's chief assets were speed and great strength. He enjoyed his biggest day against Southern U. when he threw key blocks that led directly to three touchdown runs.

PERSONAL: Willie Lull Young was born on June 27, 1943, in Ruston, La., where he still makes his home. A quiet, withdrawn person, Willie is married to the former Vera Hall. He majored in physical education at Grambling and aspires to a career in coaching.
